

Why Teach at Goathland Primary?

The journey to work may have the occasional obstacle, but the peaceful drive with breathtaking views is a great opportunity to relax.

Our unique setting, close to historic Whitby and at the heart of the North York Moors, offers extensive opportunities for creative teaching.

We have small classes which are well-resourced and inviting. We have a very experienced staff team which is friendly and ambitious. Our governors, families and the local community are all highly supportive. We are a member of the Esk Valley Alliance and the Yorkshire Coast Education Partnership, which give us many opportunities for sharing expertise and professional development with colleagues in schools across the area. We might be small, but we think big!

Quote from our teaching staff:

'Goathland is a warm and welcoming community. The children of our school are well behaved and a pleasure to teach. Our school is situated in a beautiful part of the world and we are lucky to have plenty of opportunities for outdoor learning and visits in the locality. As I have developed through my career, Goathland has always encouraged my professional development and has supported me throughout my time here. We are one big family and our school ethos underpins everything we do.'
