Headteacher Haverstock School

(including executive responsibility for Harmood School)

L30-39 (inner London, from £123,004). Permanent, full time.

The Governing Board of H3 Federation is looking to appoint the next Headteacher of Haverstock School. The post will include executive leadership of nearby Harmood (SEMH Special) School.

This is an exceptional career opportunity for an existing or aspiring headteacher who wishes to lead an inclusive community school in a vibrant inner-city context. The role will suit an accomplished and adaptive leader, who is able simultaneously to lead and inspire Haverstock, while also developing their wider leadership skills through the executive leadership of Harmood, and a wider role in H3 Federation and in Camden's rapidly evolving education landscape.

Our location at the very heart of one of London's most diverse inner-city boroughs provides the new Headteacher with a genuinely unique chance to change people's lives, and to create something great.

The successful candidate will have significant secondary leadership experience, and a deep understanding of school improvement for all. This role will hold additional interest for candidates with a passion and vision around SEN education and inclusion. This is a chance to lead a mainstream secondary school, while also designing and delivering a suite of satellite provisions for those with special needs, including an Additionally Resourced Provision for autistic children, and Harmood Special School.

Haverstock boasts a large sixth form, an impressive PFI maintained building, extensive arts and sports facilities, and a vibrant, talented community of children, staff and families. Governors wish to appoint a headteacher who will champion the schools' places within the local community, pursue the highest quality of education for all, and place an inclusive ethos at the centre of their strategic vision. Our situation at the heart of one of London's most vibrant cultural and commercial centres provides opportunities for enrichment and exposure to the world of work that are unrivalled.
