Guidance Notes

General

- The person specification lists the essential criteria and any desirable criteria, if appropriate, that are needed to carry out the job. The criteria should include any qualifications, experience or skills that are essential to do the job, as well as criteria which would be beneficial (desirable) but would not stop a person from being short-listed (desirable criteria can usually be acquired once the person has commenced work).
- Criteria should be described in terms of what an applicant needs to demonstrate and how this may be evidenced. This ensures that we do not put unnecessary barriers in the way of applicants from diverse backgrounds and age ranges.
- Criteria must not be discriminatory and appointments panels need to be careful not to put too much emphasis on formal qualifications or lengths of experience that they can't justify, as other evidence of ability may be just as relevant. If you can't justify the inclusion of a criterion, don't use it:
 - Be particularly careful when applying general qualifications as this will be difficult to justify e.g. 5 GCSE's, degree level.
 - Describe experience in terms of quality, level and type rather than the length. For example, asking for 5 years experience could be age discriminatory if you can't justify why it is essential.
 - Do not use age as a condition or indicator of experience or maturity.
 - Avoid unjustifiable physical requirements that could exclude people with a disability.

Part A: Application Stage

- Part A of the person specification should focus on criteria that can be assessed at the application stage. For example, it is easier to assess if an applicant has a relevant qualification rather than their verbal communication skills which would be assessed at the interview stage.

Part B: Assessment Stage

- Part B of the person specification should focus on those criteria that will be further considered at the assessment stage and should identify the assessment methods that will be used. It may include additional work-related criteria that will be need to be discussed or checked at interview: for example, requirement for a particular working pattern, driving licence.

Part C: Additional Requirements

- Part C of the person specification should identify those criteria that will be assessed when pre-employment checks are taken up.
