COMMITTED TO EXCELLENCE

Humanities at Brookfield

The successful applicant will join a successful Humanities team of highly motivated professionals. We enable students to maximise their potential by developing a deep understanding and knowledge of skills through engaging, challenging and enjoyable lessons. The departments have a friendly and supportive atmosphere with teaching and learning at the centre of everything we do as we strive for excellence. Staff are supported in continually developing their practice through regular CPD opportunities and collaboration as a department.

The departments are extremely well resourced. They are highly collaborative, with curriculum responsibilities shared across key members of staff; supporting a strong ethos of building and developing resources. The curriculum is carefully planned to guarantee high quality teaching to ensure that students make excellent progress across all key stages.

Alongside excellent teaching and learning within the classroom, we are also committed to students engaging in opportunities outside of the classroom to extend their fieldwork skills. The departments are well resourced with a variety of fieldwork equipment which is used regularly with students.
