Welcome to Bournemouth School for Girls

Dear Colleague,

Thank you for your interest in our post for Teacher of Media Studies & English. You have taken your first step to becoming part of a special community that has now served Bournemouth for over a century.

At Bournemouth School for Girls (BSG) we support the development of the whole student, including providing them with exciting educational opportunities in and out of the classroom.

From Year 7 to Year 13, we are fortunate to have students who are truly eager to learn. Our young people thrive here as we feed their curiosity, guide their ambition and ensure they become positive citizens in wider society.

We are delighted that our strong curriculum coupled with outstanding support from our dedicated staff continue to facilitate superb exam results at both GCSE and A Level. We are looking for a new colleague that will join an experienced and supportive team and help deliver exciting Media Studies and English curricula to a new generation. We anticipate that this contract will be in the region of 0.5 FTE.

We have a successful and comprehensive CPD programme for ECTs as well as more experienced colleagues and welcome applications from colleagues at any stage of their career. There is the possibility of a TLR for a suitably experienced candidate.

We pride ourselves on supporting our colleagues' wellbeing and hope you'll note the generous package of support and conditions for our teachers.

Please read this application pack to get a more detailed view of the Media Studies department and our wider school. We look forward to receiving your application. If you have any queries about either the post or the school in general please do not hesitate to contact us and we will be pleased to help you.

Mr. David Sims, Headteacher

About Bournemouth School for Girls

Founded in 1918, Bournemouth School for Girls is an 11-18 selective girls' grammar school and Sixth Form in the heart of Bournemouth. BSG currently has around 1300 students on roll which includes those in our Sixth Form. It provides students with extensive academic and extra-curricular activities from Year 7 to Year 13.

The school is academically successful and ranks highly in comparison tables such as the Sunday Times Parent Power Survey. The school was inspected by Ofsted in May 2024 and judged to be outstanding in all areas. The inspectors summarised the ethos and atmosphere of the school as follows:

"Bournemouth School for Girls is a joyous place. Pupils flourish academically and socially. They are passionate about their learning and embrace the multitude of wider development opportunities that the school provides."

The school's vision is: the best for our students, the best from our students, and the curriculum in place is designed to ensure that students are provided with the best opportunities to prepare them for their future.

BSG offers students a broad and balanced curriculum at Key Stage 3, including lessons in sciences, performing arts, art, humanities and technology. We encourage students to maintain this breadth in their KS4 studies where our students study 10 GCSE subjects in Years 10 and 11.

As a selective school, the academic ability of the students is high and we try to ensure lessons go beyond the national curriculum and support further progress at each key stage.

The school has a comprehensive pastoral system in both the main school and Sixth Form, with our tutor groups split into six school houses: Austen; Curie; Franklin; Parks; Rossetti and Shelley, all named after influential and inspirational women from the 19th and 20th centuries. Each house is led by a Head of House who supports students' pastoral needs with the support of form tutors. Each year, houses run their own charity weeks to raise money for their chosen charity. Heads of House also deliver PSHE lessons to all students in their house and deliver the RSE curriculum to support their personal and social development.

We are very proud of our extensive extra-curricular offer for students. There are over 50 clubs and activities which are run by our staff voluntarily in lunchtimes throughout the week. Students develop passion, knowledge and skill by participation in clubs in music, drama, sport, adventure, STEM and crafts. We hope that applicants will feel able to support this programme.

By providing this curriculum to students, the school upholds its three key values:

Work Hard | By providing a broad, balanced and academically challenging curriculum.

Be Kind | By providing excellent pastoral support and social education.

Be Ambitious | By guiding students to develop skills and knowledge beyond the classroom and for their futures.

About the Media Studies Department

Media Studies at Bournemouth School for Girls is a growing and dynamic subject area that offers students the opportunity to critically engage with the media that shapes contemporary society while developing practical and analytical skills. The department currently delivers the OCR A Level Media Studies course to students in both Year 12 and Year 13, with one class in each year group.

Results in recent years have remained consistent. We are proud that our highest achieving students are able to access the top grades, with the average grade being a B.

Although currently a small department, Media Studies is an increasingly popular subject within the school, with student interest rising year on year. This growth reflects both the relevance of the subject in a rapidly evolving digital landscape and the enthusiasm of students to explore how media industries create meaning, represent audiences and influence culture.

Students study the OCR A Level Media Studies specification, which provides a rich and academically rigorous exploration of media forms, industries, audiences and representations. We believe this course matches the profile of our students well. It encourages them to analyse a wide range of media texts and contexts while also developing their own creative production work. Through this, students build valuable skills in critical thinking, communication, research and media production.

The subject benefits from access to a range of ICT suites across the school, enabling students to undertake digital research, editing and production work as part of their coursework and classroom learning. This flexibility allows the department to integrate practical media creation alongside theoretical study.

Media Studies is currently taught by three members of the Senior Leadership Team, reflecting the school's commitment to maintaining the subject and supporting its continued development. However, with the increasing popularity of the course and forthcoming changes at SLT level, there is a clear opportunity to further develop and raise the profile of Media Studies within the school community.

For a new member of staff, this represents an exciting opportunity to shape and grow the subject, developing enrichment opportunities, strengthening the department's identity and further promoting Media Studies across the school. With strong student interest and supportive leadership, the subject is well placed to expand and become an increasingly prominent part of the school's sixth form curriculum.

Media Studies at Bournemouth School for Girls is therefore an area with significant potential: a subject rooted in academic rigour, supported by strong school resources, and ready to be driven forward by an enthusiastic and innovative teacher.

The Application Process

We are looking for a teacher of Media Studies & English to join our school with effect from September 2026. This will provide an exciting and challenging opportunity to help build upon the existing high standards in both Media Studies and English.

The ideal candidate will be a teacher who can inspire and bring out the best in all our students. In addition to more experienced colleagues, this post is also suitable for ECTs. There is the possibility of a TLR for a suitably experienced candidate.

We are looking for a colleague with the following qualities:

- the ability to gain the trust and respect of school staff, pupils and parents
- outstanding subject knowledge with an ability to share this with pupils in an exciting and academically rigorous way
- the ability to teach Media Studies to A Level
- the ability to teach English to KS3 (the ability to teach English GCSE would be an advantage)
- evidence of recent relevant professional development and commitment to continued professional learning
- outstanding communication skills, both oral and written
- high levels of organisation, reliability and resilience
- good knowledge of current issues relating to Teaching and Learning
- the ability to work under pressure
- loyalty and commitment to the team
- flexibility in approach and ability to see the big picture
- enthusiasm, with the ability to bring new ideas to the school and department
- an awareness of current developments in Media Studies teaching

We look forward to receiving your application by the deadline of 9am on Monday 13 April 2026.

This should include:

- a completed application form
- a letter of application outlining your readiness for the role.

Interviews are scheduled for the week commencing Monday 20 April. If you have not heard from us two weeks after the closing date, you may assume your application has been unsuccessful on this occasion.

If you have been shortlisted by the interview panel, you will be contacted by email and/or at your home address to attend an interview, together with information about the interview process and any other documents you will be required to bring.

Bournemouth School for Girls is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment. Any successful applicant will be required to undertake an Enhanced Disclosure check by the Disclosure & Barring Service. In line with KCSIE 2025, all applicants will undergo checks on social media and online accounts to help assess suitability for the role.
