

Music Department

Introduction

We are an experienced and enthusiastic team who have high regard for each other and who work energetically and cooperatively for the collective good of all our students. We regard music to be an essential subject for students to foster an aesthetic awareness that will enrich their lives in the future. Our belief is that the teaching of music is relevant to the education of the whole person, whether directly benefiting the teaching of other subjects or developing valuable personal characteristics in the students. We value a calm, purposeful atmosphere within the department, and have high expectations that students should enjoy working to the best of their abilities.

Staff and Accommodation

The Music Department is housed in a modern purpose-built building with three large classrooms, several practice rooms and an ensemble room. One classroom is a purpose-built Music Technology suite with a recording and engineering room as well as a teaching room, and sixth form study area. Each classroom is equipped with Apple Mac computers running Garageband and Logic and all students have access to keyboards, a range of acoustic instruments and professional recording equipment. There are currently two full time teachers and one part time teacher, as well as peripatetic teachers of voice, brass, strings, woodwind, piano, guitar and drums, all supported by a music technician three days a week.

Curriculum

Music is taught in mixed ability groups for three lessons over a two week timetable in Years 7 and 8. At Key Stage 4 we offer a GCSE Music option and a Music Technology option which both run over three years from Years 9-11. In the Sixth Form we offer A Level Music and BTEC Level 3 Music Technology. The BTEC course is offered as an opportunity for students who wish to concentrate on music production skills, rather than being an alternative to Music A Level for the less academic. As such, the course attracts highly-motivated students and is challenging and successful.

The syllabus and work schemes are designed to teach musical concepts through practical activities of performing, composing, listening and appraising. We are committed to providing a musical education for all abilities but also value any vocal or instrumental skills gained by individual students in private lessons. We encourage students to utilise these skills in the classroom and liaise with private teachers whenever possible.

Extracurricular

Giving students the opportunity to join ensemble groups and to perform in concerts is a very high priority for us. We run advanced string and wind groups, a mixed training group and singing groups weekly and encourage all students who have vocal and instrumental lessons to join in. We also encourage students to form their own small groups in whatever style they like and practices at lunch or break times in the department.

Concerts are held termly, not just for the larger ensemble groups, but also for soloists and groups of any level of experience, in every year group, to gain valuable experience in performing to an audience.

Our instrumental and vocal teaching is provided by private teachers who give individual lessons both during and after school. Our Music Technology facilities provide a home for Radio Weald which is one example of our Student Leadership programme.
